

Are there requirements for disclosure of invention to funding sources?

If an invention is made on federally funded research, the University must notify the federal agency of the invention disclosure and whether it elects to retain title to the invention. Other sponsored research agreements with other government entities or private industry may also impose disclosure requirements.